Pre-Conference Workshop Presented by ACCA

Navigating Digital Accessibility

Cascade D

As government organizations around the state of Colorado work towards digital accessibility compliance, Boulder County has taken great strides in reaching this goal. They'll share with you the progress they've made so far, as well as their immediate and long-term strategies. You'll hear about trainings, policies, procedures, communication, processes, and workflows that the county has established towards their Digital Accessibility Initiative. With a "people first" approach and an eye towards inclusivity, Boulder County has worked extensively on change management across all departments ensuring that all technology works for all people. After hearing from Boulder County and answering questions, the conversation will open up for others to share what approaches they have taken towards digital accessibility so we can learn from each other.

Speakers:

Conrad Gonzales, Applications Development Manager, Boulder County

Jodie Carroll, Web Specialist, Boulder County

County Commissioners Water Workshop "201" – Frameworks for Protecting Water Values

Cascade ABC

Join Water Education Colorado for a "201"-level water workshop where we'll provide a primer on the fundamentals of Colorado water law, administration, and compacts, followed strategies and tools to identify water-related values in your county and plan for a future that safeguards them. Learn about protecting and supporting agricultural producers, county roles in adequacy determinations, using water data to inform county comprehensive plans, how 1041 can be applied to "basin of origin" protections, and more.

CCI & ACCA Concurrent SessionWhat do Coroners Do?Cascade EF*

Please join Boulder County Coroner Jeff Martin and Garfield County Coroner Rob Glassmire in a training and discussion on the needs, requirements, and the day-to-day work of Colorado Coroners. From rural to urban, Colorado Coroners are first responders who investigate a variety of deaths in their jurisdiction. From all hours of the day and night, in the backcountry, rural western slope, or a big city in Colorado, Colorado coroners have a host of tasks, statutory requirements, and professionally recognized obligations. Coroners of all sizes of their jurisdiction need their commissioners support with the budgetary aspects of providing operating supplies, personnel, office and morgue space, and vehicles for responding to scenes and transporting decedents.

*Speakers:Jeff Martin, Boulder County CoronerRob Glassmire, Garfield County Coroner*Moderator:Lora Thomas, Commissioner, Douglas County, CCI Secretary

1:30 pm – 3 pm

CCI & ACCA Concurrent SessionAdvancing Middle-Income Housing Development: Strategies and OpportunitiesCascade D*

Middle-income housing has – as in many other states – historically been neglected in Colorado, leaving many without affordable and appropriate options. This type of housing bridges the gap between market-rate housing, which is increasingly unaffordable in the state, and low-income housing, which relies on tools like the popular low-income housing tax credit for financial viability. Middle-income housing options are bolstered by opportunities like the new Colorado Middle Income Housing Tax Credit (MIHTC) and innovations in public-private partnerships.

This session will provide a brief introduction to middle-income housing, explaining what it is and its importance in creating robust, economically resilient communities. We'll explore current and anticipated funding and development options and discuss how counties can most effectively partner with developers, state agencies, and other stakeholders to get middle-income housing projects across the finish line.

*Speakers:Ariel Cisneros, Housing Portfolio Manager, Colorado Department of Local AffairsKathryn Grosscup, Housing Tax Credit Manager, Colorado Housing & Finance AuthorityMichael Leahey, Founder & Principal Consultant, Castlewood PartnersGarrett Scharton, Senior Vice President, Servitas*Moderator:Tamara Pogue, Commissioner, Summit County, Chair of CCI Justice & Public Safety Committee

Future of Agriculture

Cascade D

Agriculture is a cornerstone of Colorado’s economy and heritage, yet it faces a complex web of challenges and opportunities. This session will explore the future of agriculture in our state through a multi-faceted discussion with experts from the Colorado Farm Bureau, Colorado Cattlemen’s Association, and Colorado Water Congress. We’ll discuss organizational initiatives and challenges, as well as key state-level issues facing agriculture (including water management and wolf reintroduction). This session aims to provide broad perspectives and foster collaboration to ensure the sustainability and growth of agriculture in Colorado.

Speakers:

Erin Karney, Executive Vice President, Colorado Cattlemen’s Association

Travis Smith, President of the Board of Directors, Colorado Water Congress and Western Water Specialist, National Wild Turkey Federation

Taylor Szilagyi, Executive Vice President, Colorado Farm Bureau

Moderator: Gordon Westhoff, Commissioner, Morgan County, Chair of CCI Agriculture Committee

1041 Powers in Depth

Cascade EF

1041 powers allow local governments to identify, designate, and regulate areas and activities of state interest through a local permitting process. The general intention of these powers is to allow for local governments to maintain their control over particular development projects even where the development project has statewide impacts. In this session, you will have the opportunity to hear how 1041 powers have been used throughout the state and how you can utilize them in your own county.

Speakers:

Gerald Dahl, Murray Dahl Beery & Renaud LLP

Matthew Hoyt, County Attorney, Gunnison County

Moderator:

CCI & ACCA General SessionThe State of Property Taxes in a Post-Gallagher WorldCascade DEF*

During the 2024 Legislative Session, the legislature, with the help of the Property Tax Commission, passed SB24-233, Property Tax, which Governor Polis signed into law. The measure provided the property tax relief that many have been seeking in the post-Gallagher world, while providing local governments with a predictable rate for both residential and non-residential properties. The bill has been described as “the biggest bipartisan deal” of the 2024 Session, and the largest property tax reduction in Colorado history. Learn from the bill sponsors what it took to get here and where this bill puts us looking into the future.

Strategies in the Evolving Renewable Energy Landscape in Colorado
Cascade ABC

Counties across Colorado are working diligently to develop codes that effectively manage renewable energy projects in ways that work for their communities. This session will explore the ways counties have done so thus far and will evaluate how the changing landscape of renewable energy policy may affect counties. We'll review the latest legislative developments (particularly Senate Bill 24-212, which provides technical assistance to counties and funds a study on renewable energy siting challenges and successes), assess the future direction of conversations in this space, and identify strategies for counties to collaborate with partners to advance shared goals.
